MNEMONICS IN CRITICAL CARE

HOW ATTENTION TO DETAIL AFFECTS PATIENT OUTCOMES

TUESDAY 24 FEBRUARY, 7PM – 8PM

ANNIE EGAN

Allied Health Critical Care Educator (ICU Pharmacist), Te Waipounamu

Join us for a practical, fast-paced session unpacking how small daily actions can make a big difference for our sickest patients. We'll explore the FASTHUG-BID framework, the A-F bundle, and the key touchpoints that improve safety, comfort and outcomes in ICU. You'll walk away with fresh insights into pain, sedation, delirium, VTE prevention, GI protection & glucose control, and lines, drugs and daily review.

Annie is an ICU pharmacist who has practiced in NZ, Australia, and the UK for 30+ years. She has been involved in the teaching and training of ICU pharmacists in New Zealand and Australia. Annie is a member of the ANZICS ICU Clinical Leadership faculty and the Te Waipounamu Critical Care Network. Her focus is to assist in leading and developing a critical care workforce that enhances the support into intensive care.
