

Internationally Qualified Nurses' Challenges

By: Monina Hernandez, MNurs(Hons), PGDipHSc, PGCertTT, BSN, RN, RM

Internationally qualified nurses bring a variety of knowledge, skills, values and experience to their new practice areas apart from bringing with them culture that match the cultural diversity of patients.

Why do nurses migrate?

- social, cultural (Alonso-Garbayo & Maben, 2009; Kingma, 2008)
- historical, educational (Choy, 2003)
- political, economic, lifestyle (Benson & O'Reilly, 2016)
- legal influences (Freeman, Baumann, Blythe, Fisher, & Akhtar-Danesh, 2012; Massey et al., 1993).

- Hernandez, 2019, unpublished work

Approximately
3 out of 10 (27%
of 52,711) of
New Zealand's
overall practising nurses are IQNs.

- Other European - 33%,
- Filipinos - 28%
- Indians - 20%

- younger than most nurses;
45% of IQNs under 40 years
of age
- 32% of IQNs aged 50 or older
- more males among IQNs - 52% of all practising male
nurses in NZ are IQNs

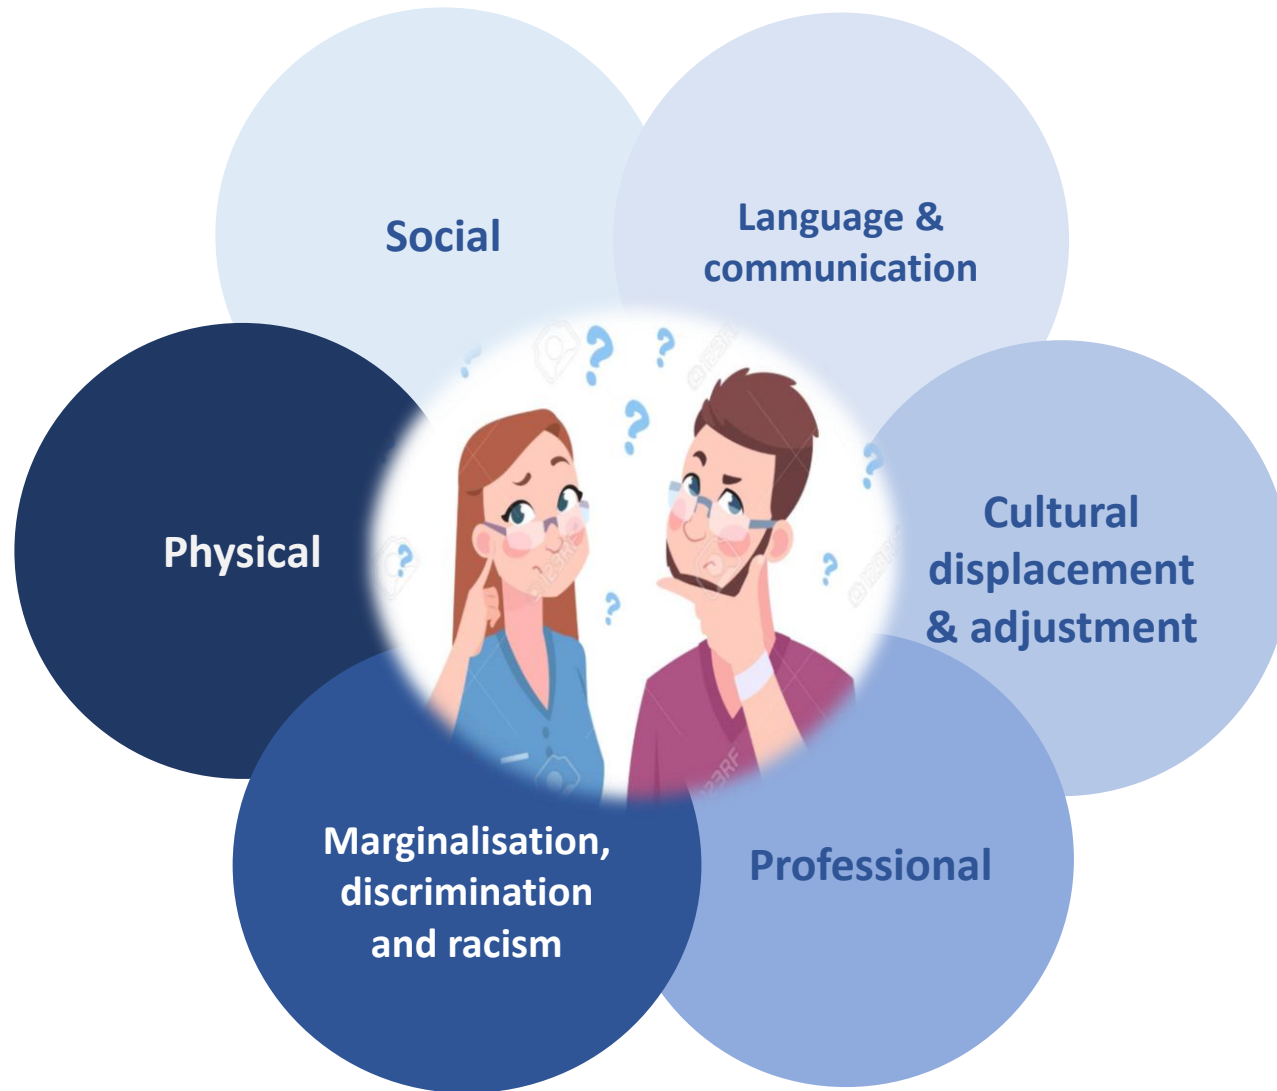

- IQNs are represented in all healthcare areas
- Most could be found in Continuing Care - 47%, Obstetrics/Maternity -40% and nursing for people with intellectual disabilities - 37%
- Predicted to make up 50% of RNs in continuing care by 2025

What do you think are the challenges that IQNs in
New Zealand
face?

IQN transitioning challenges - What research says

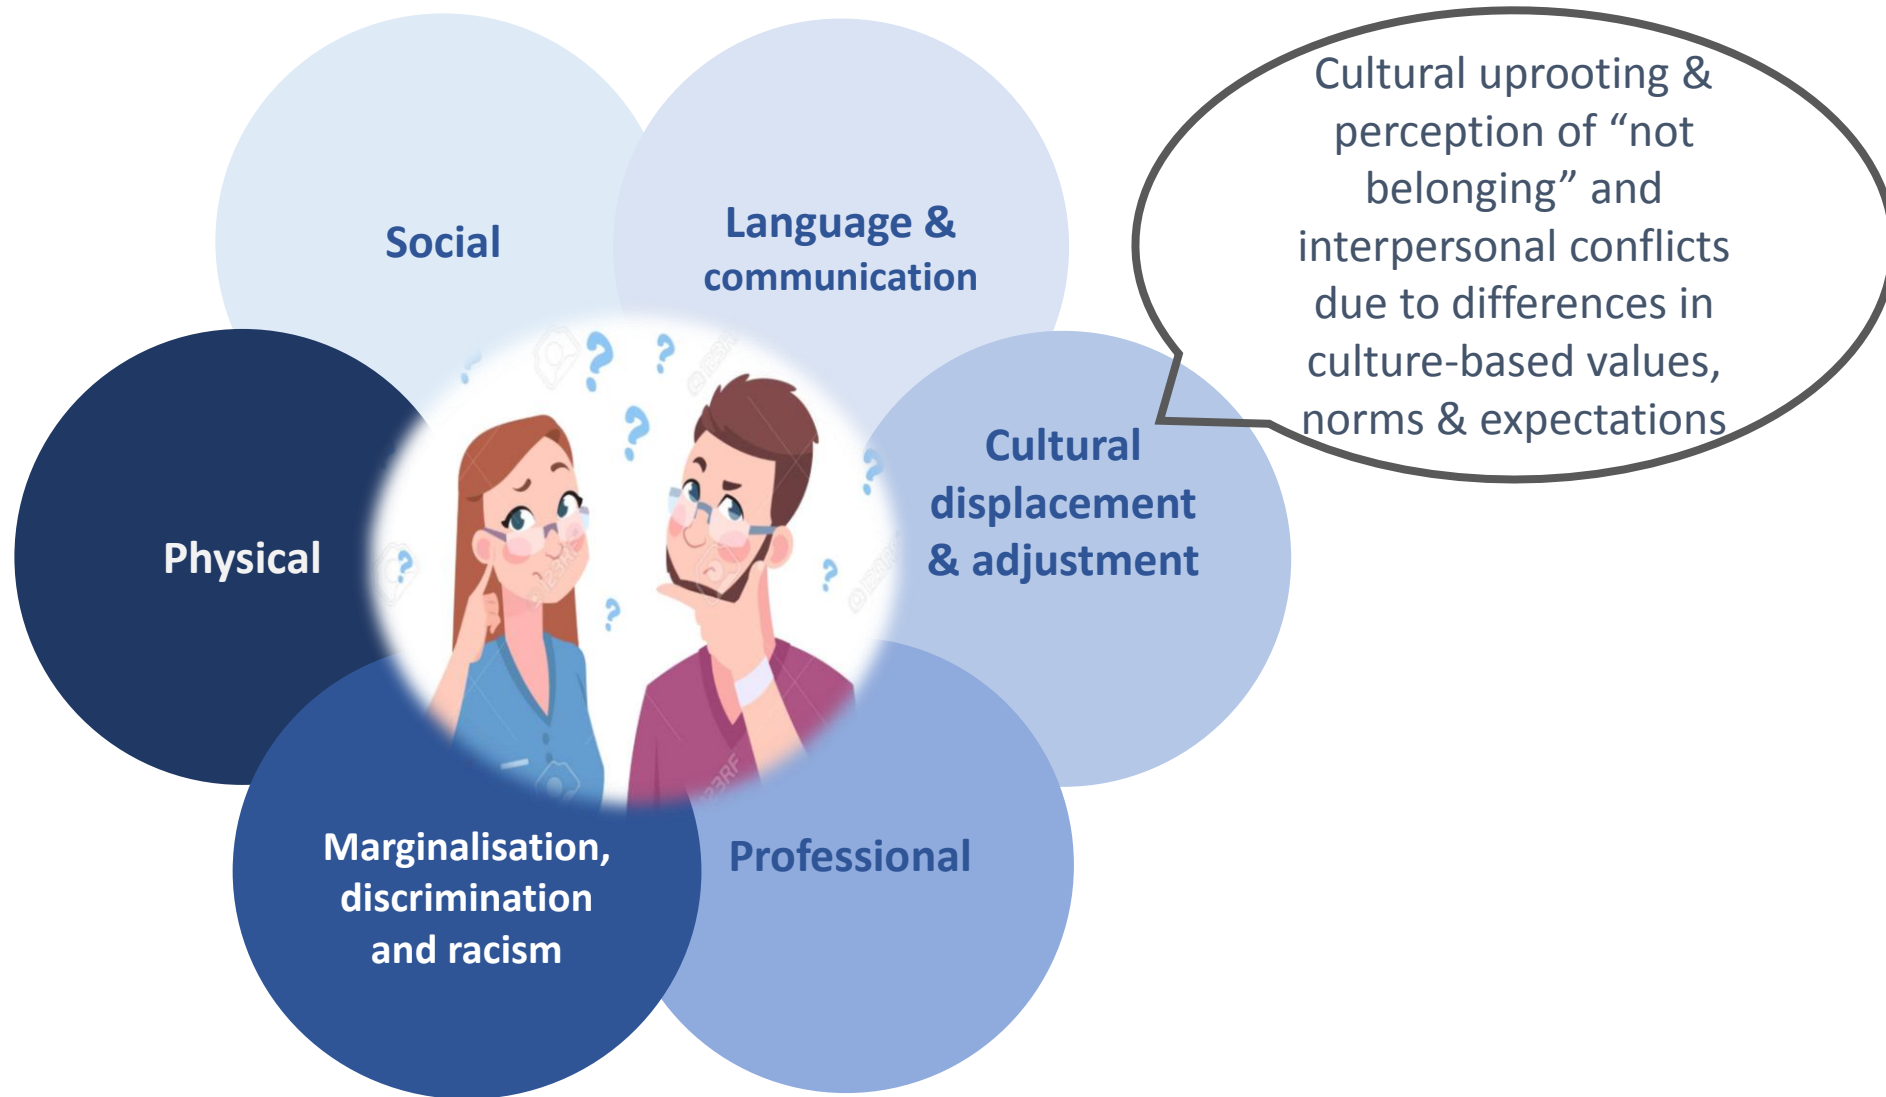

What research says

What research says

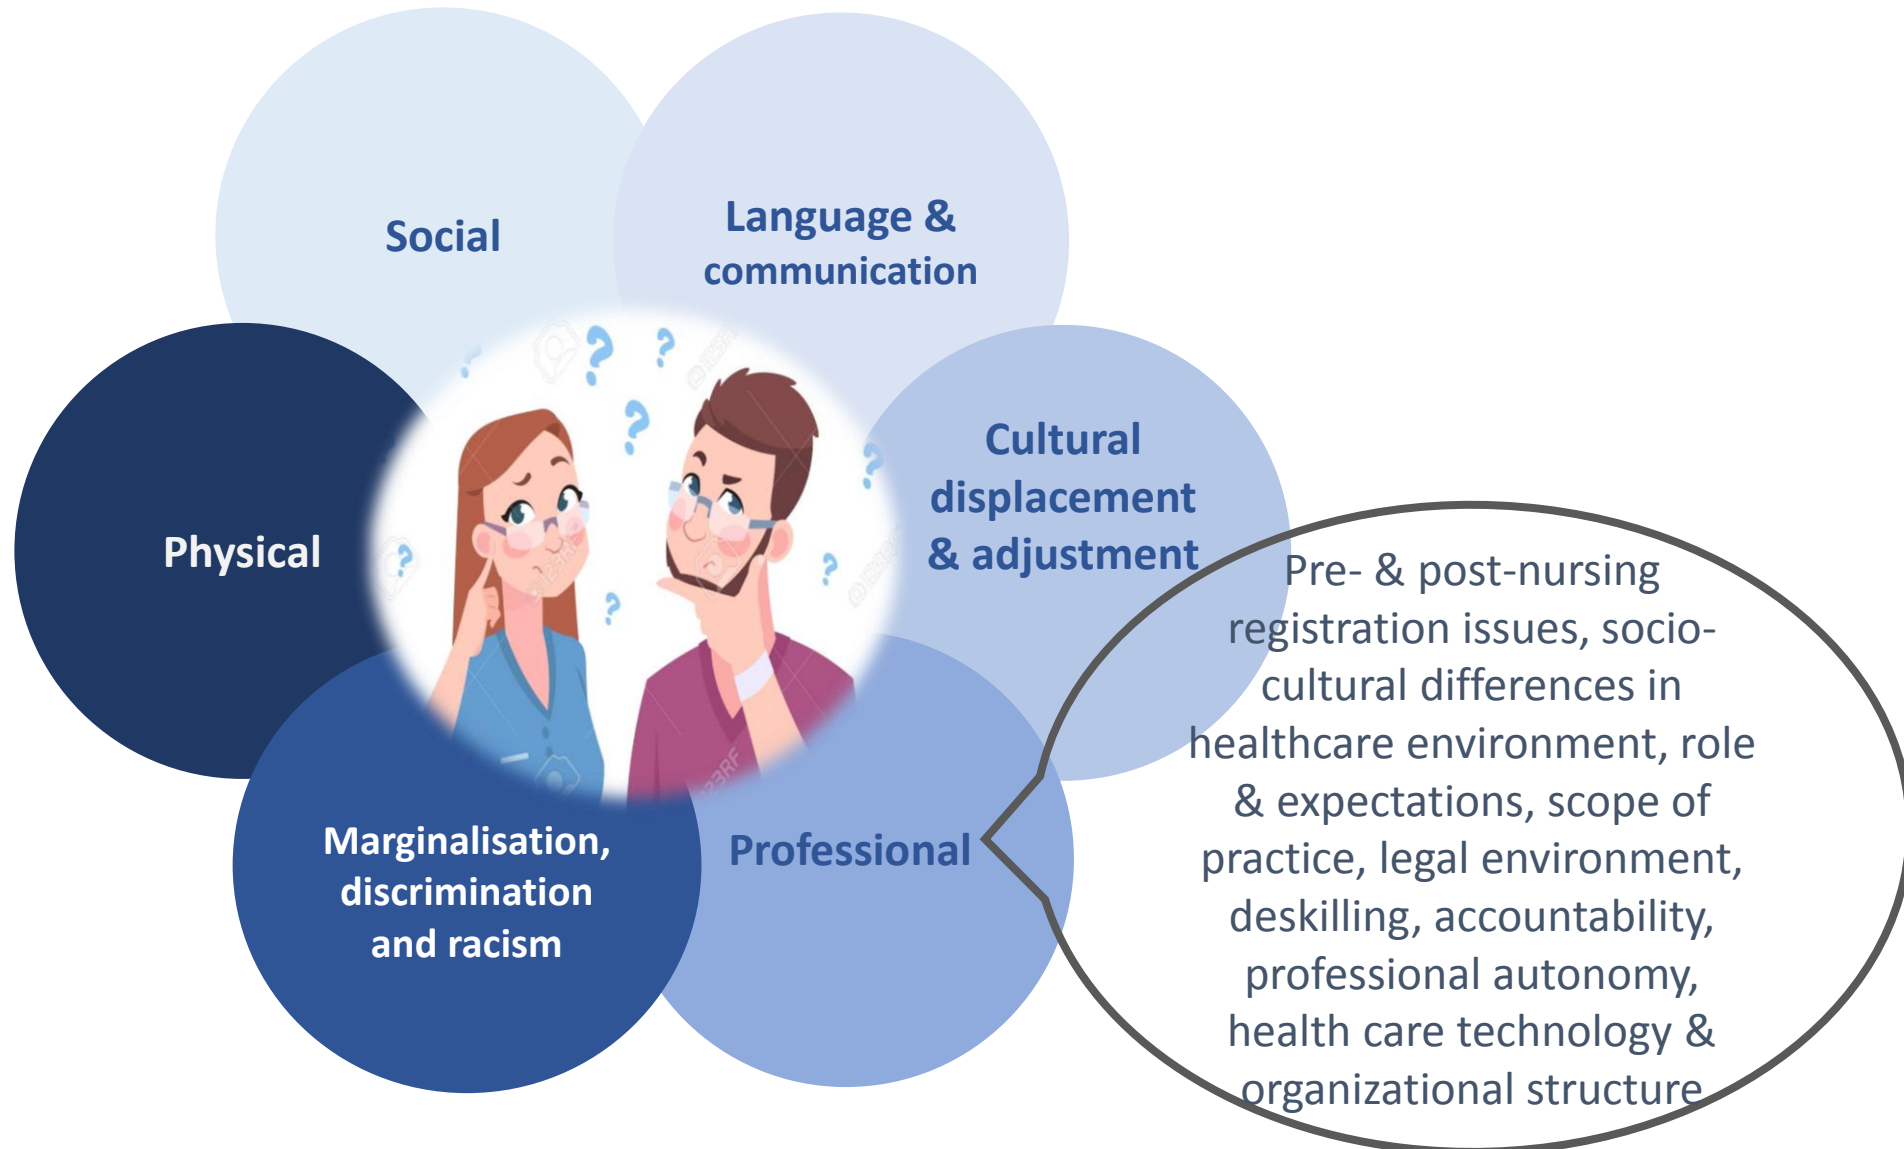

What research says

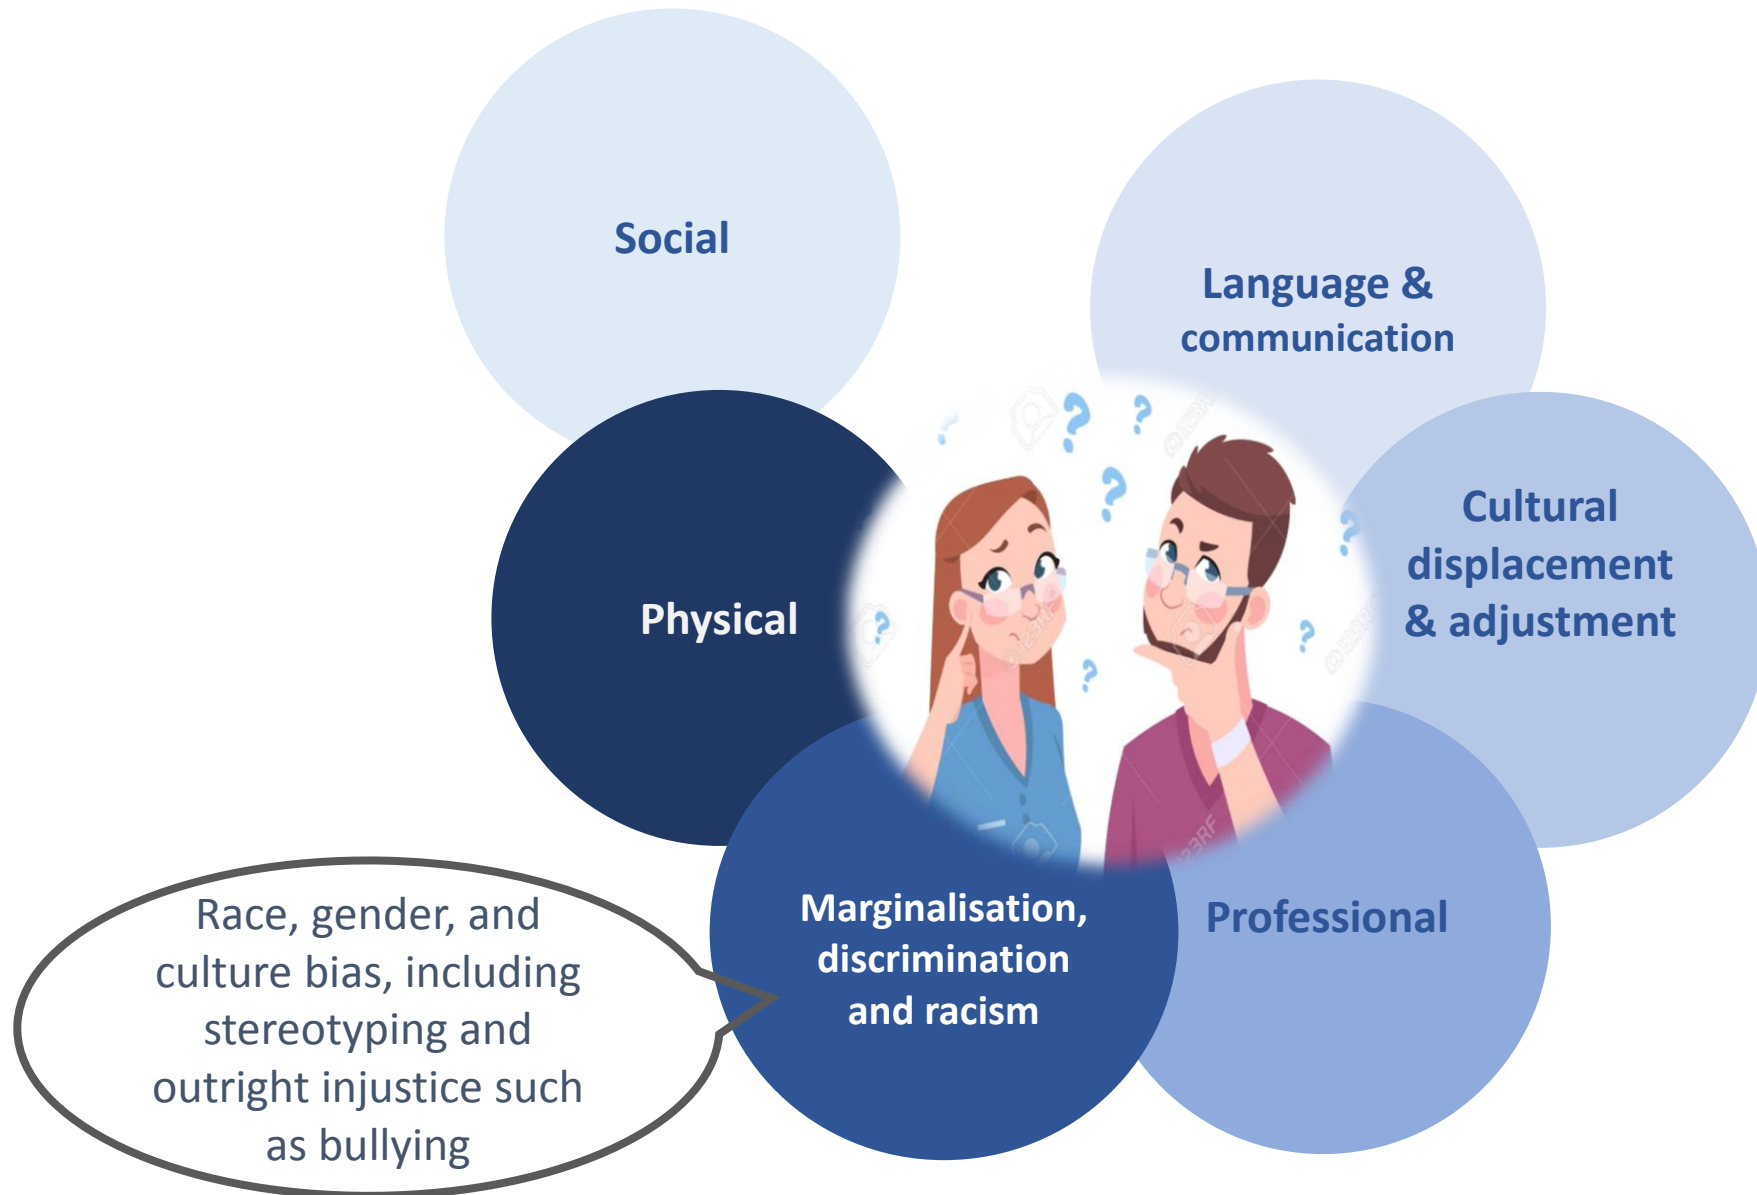

The Cultural Iceberg

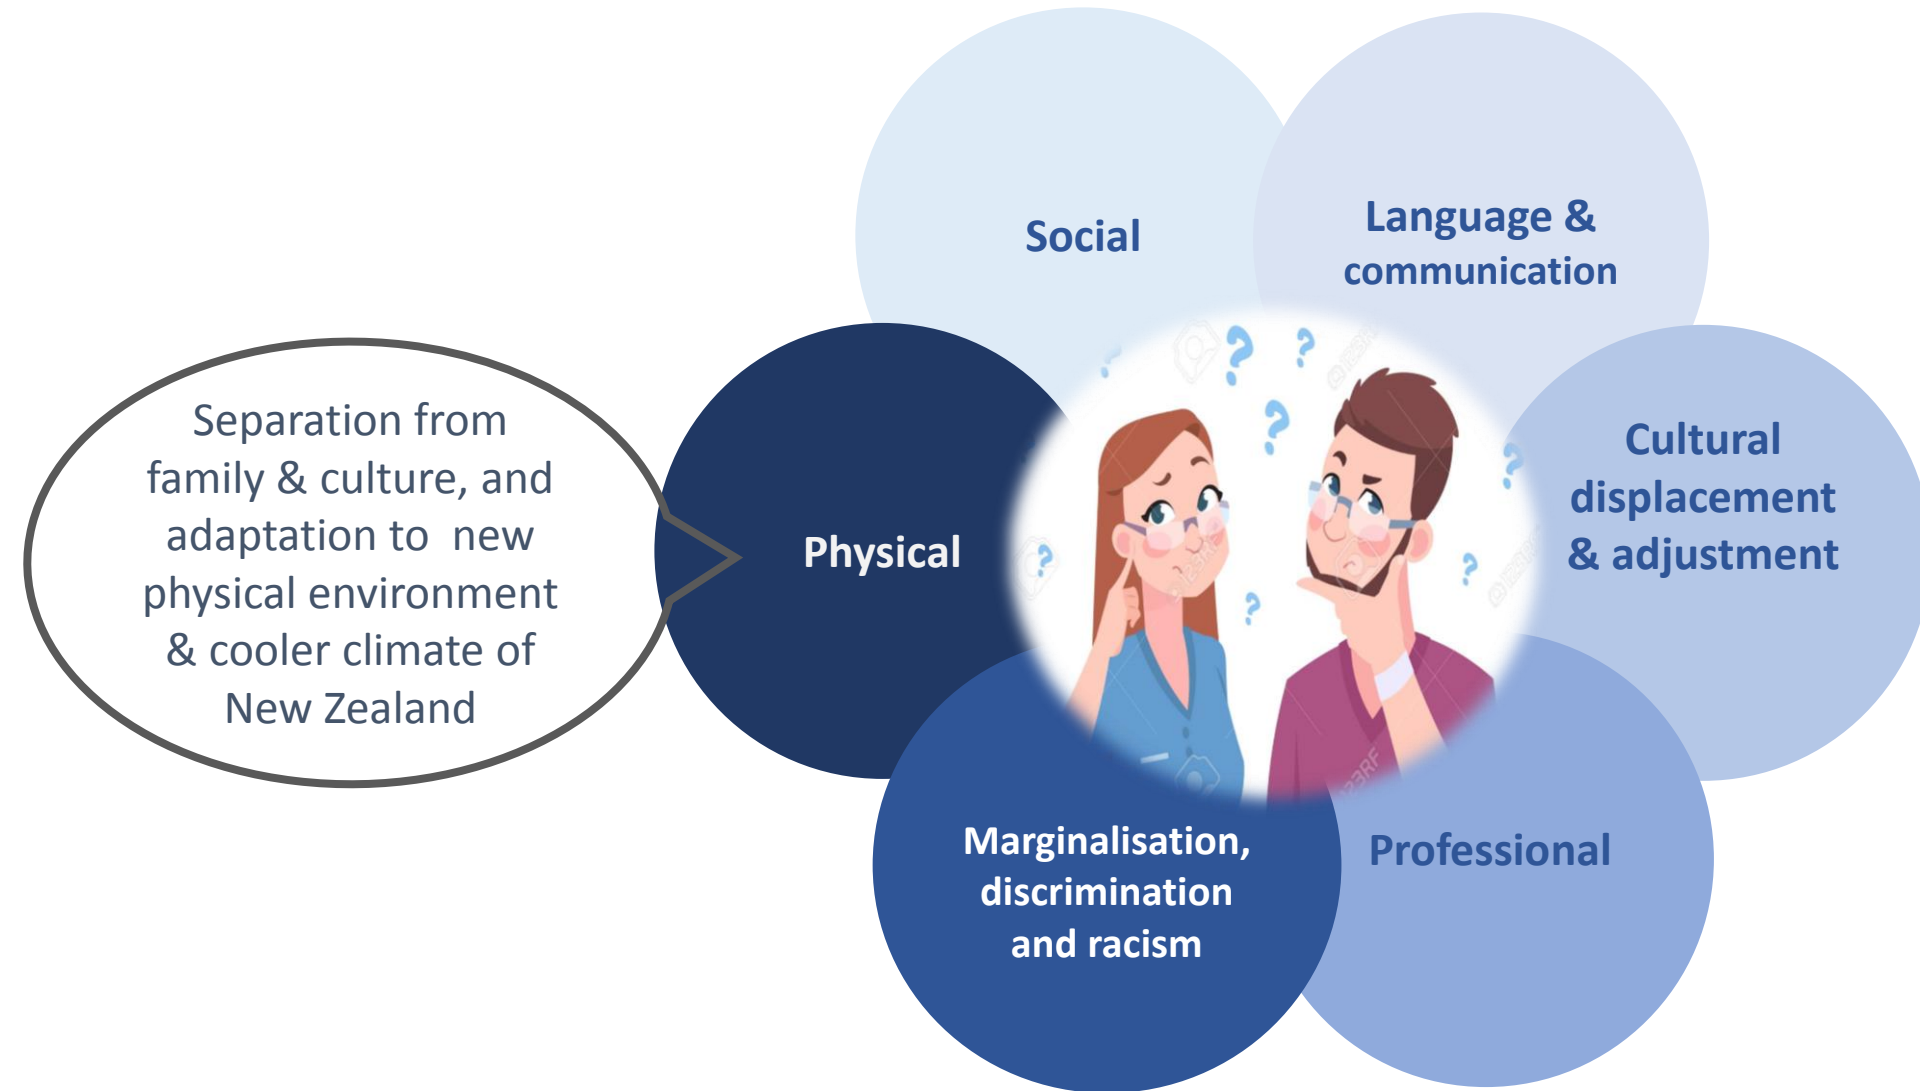

What research says

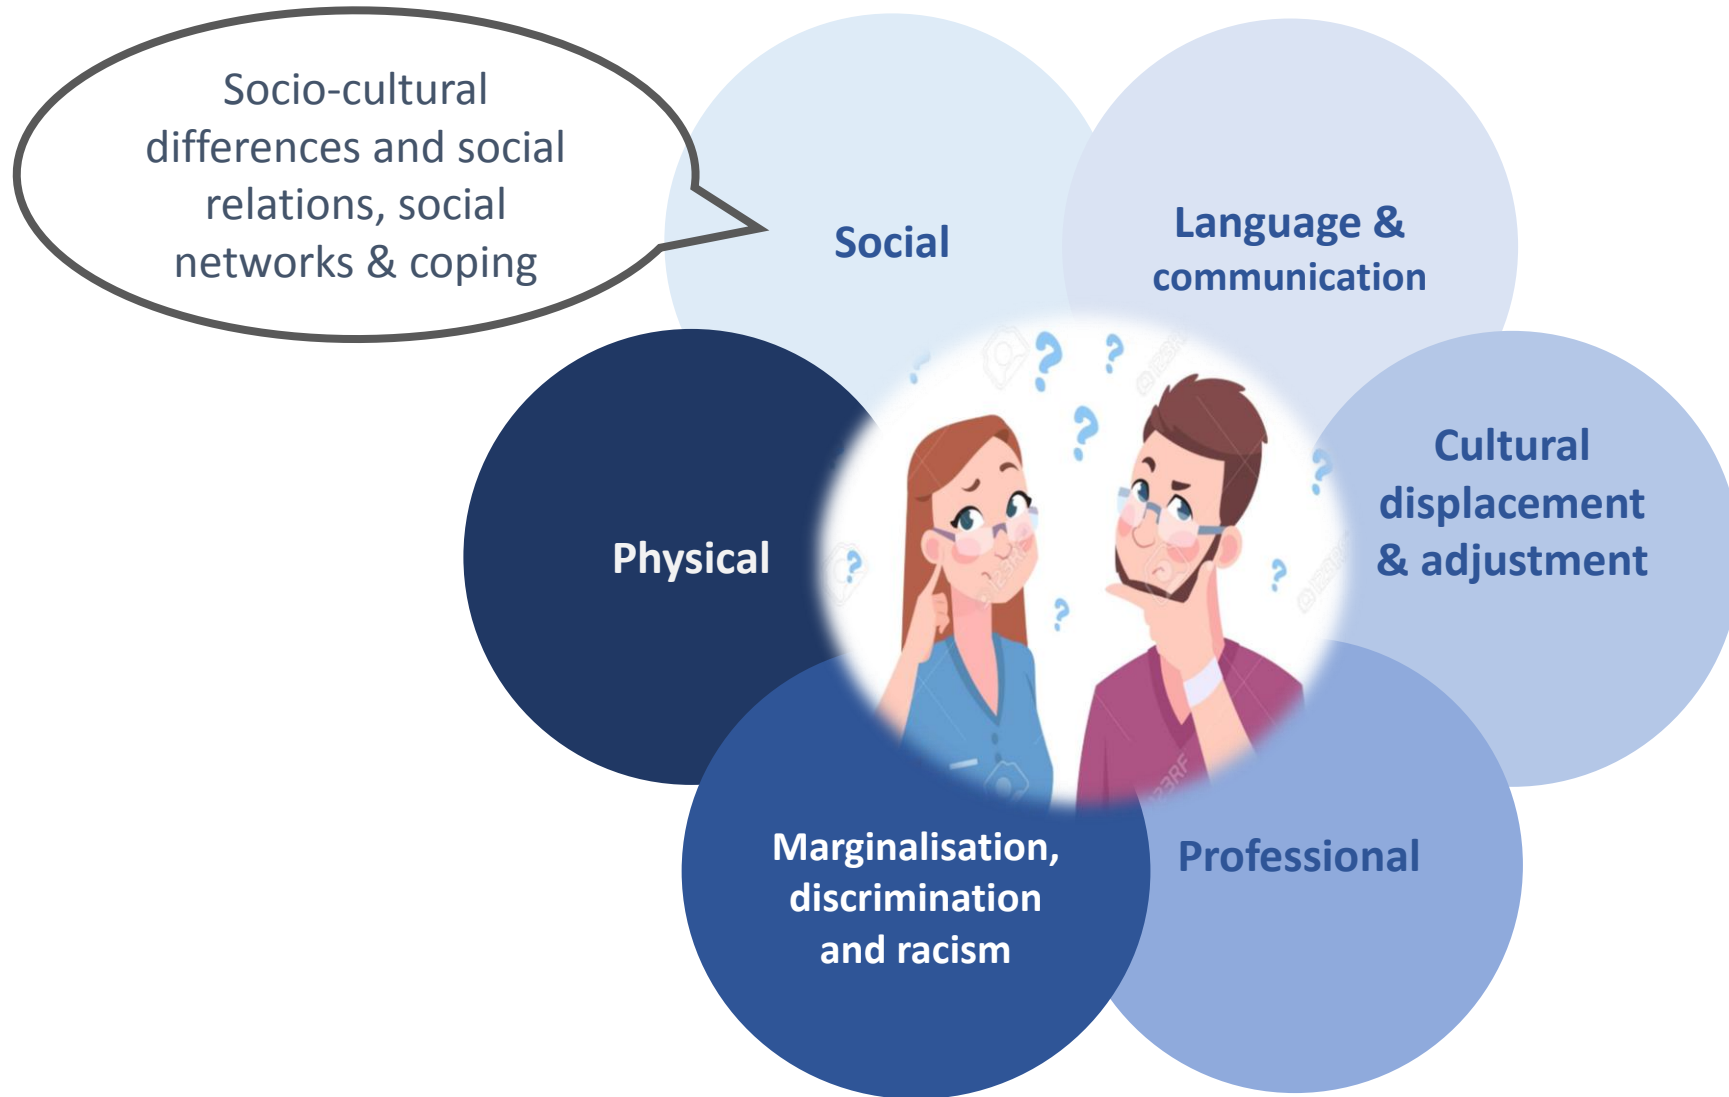

What research says

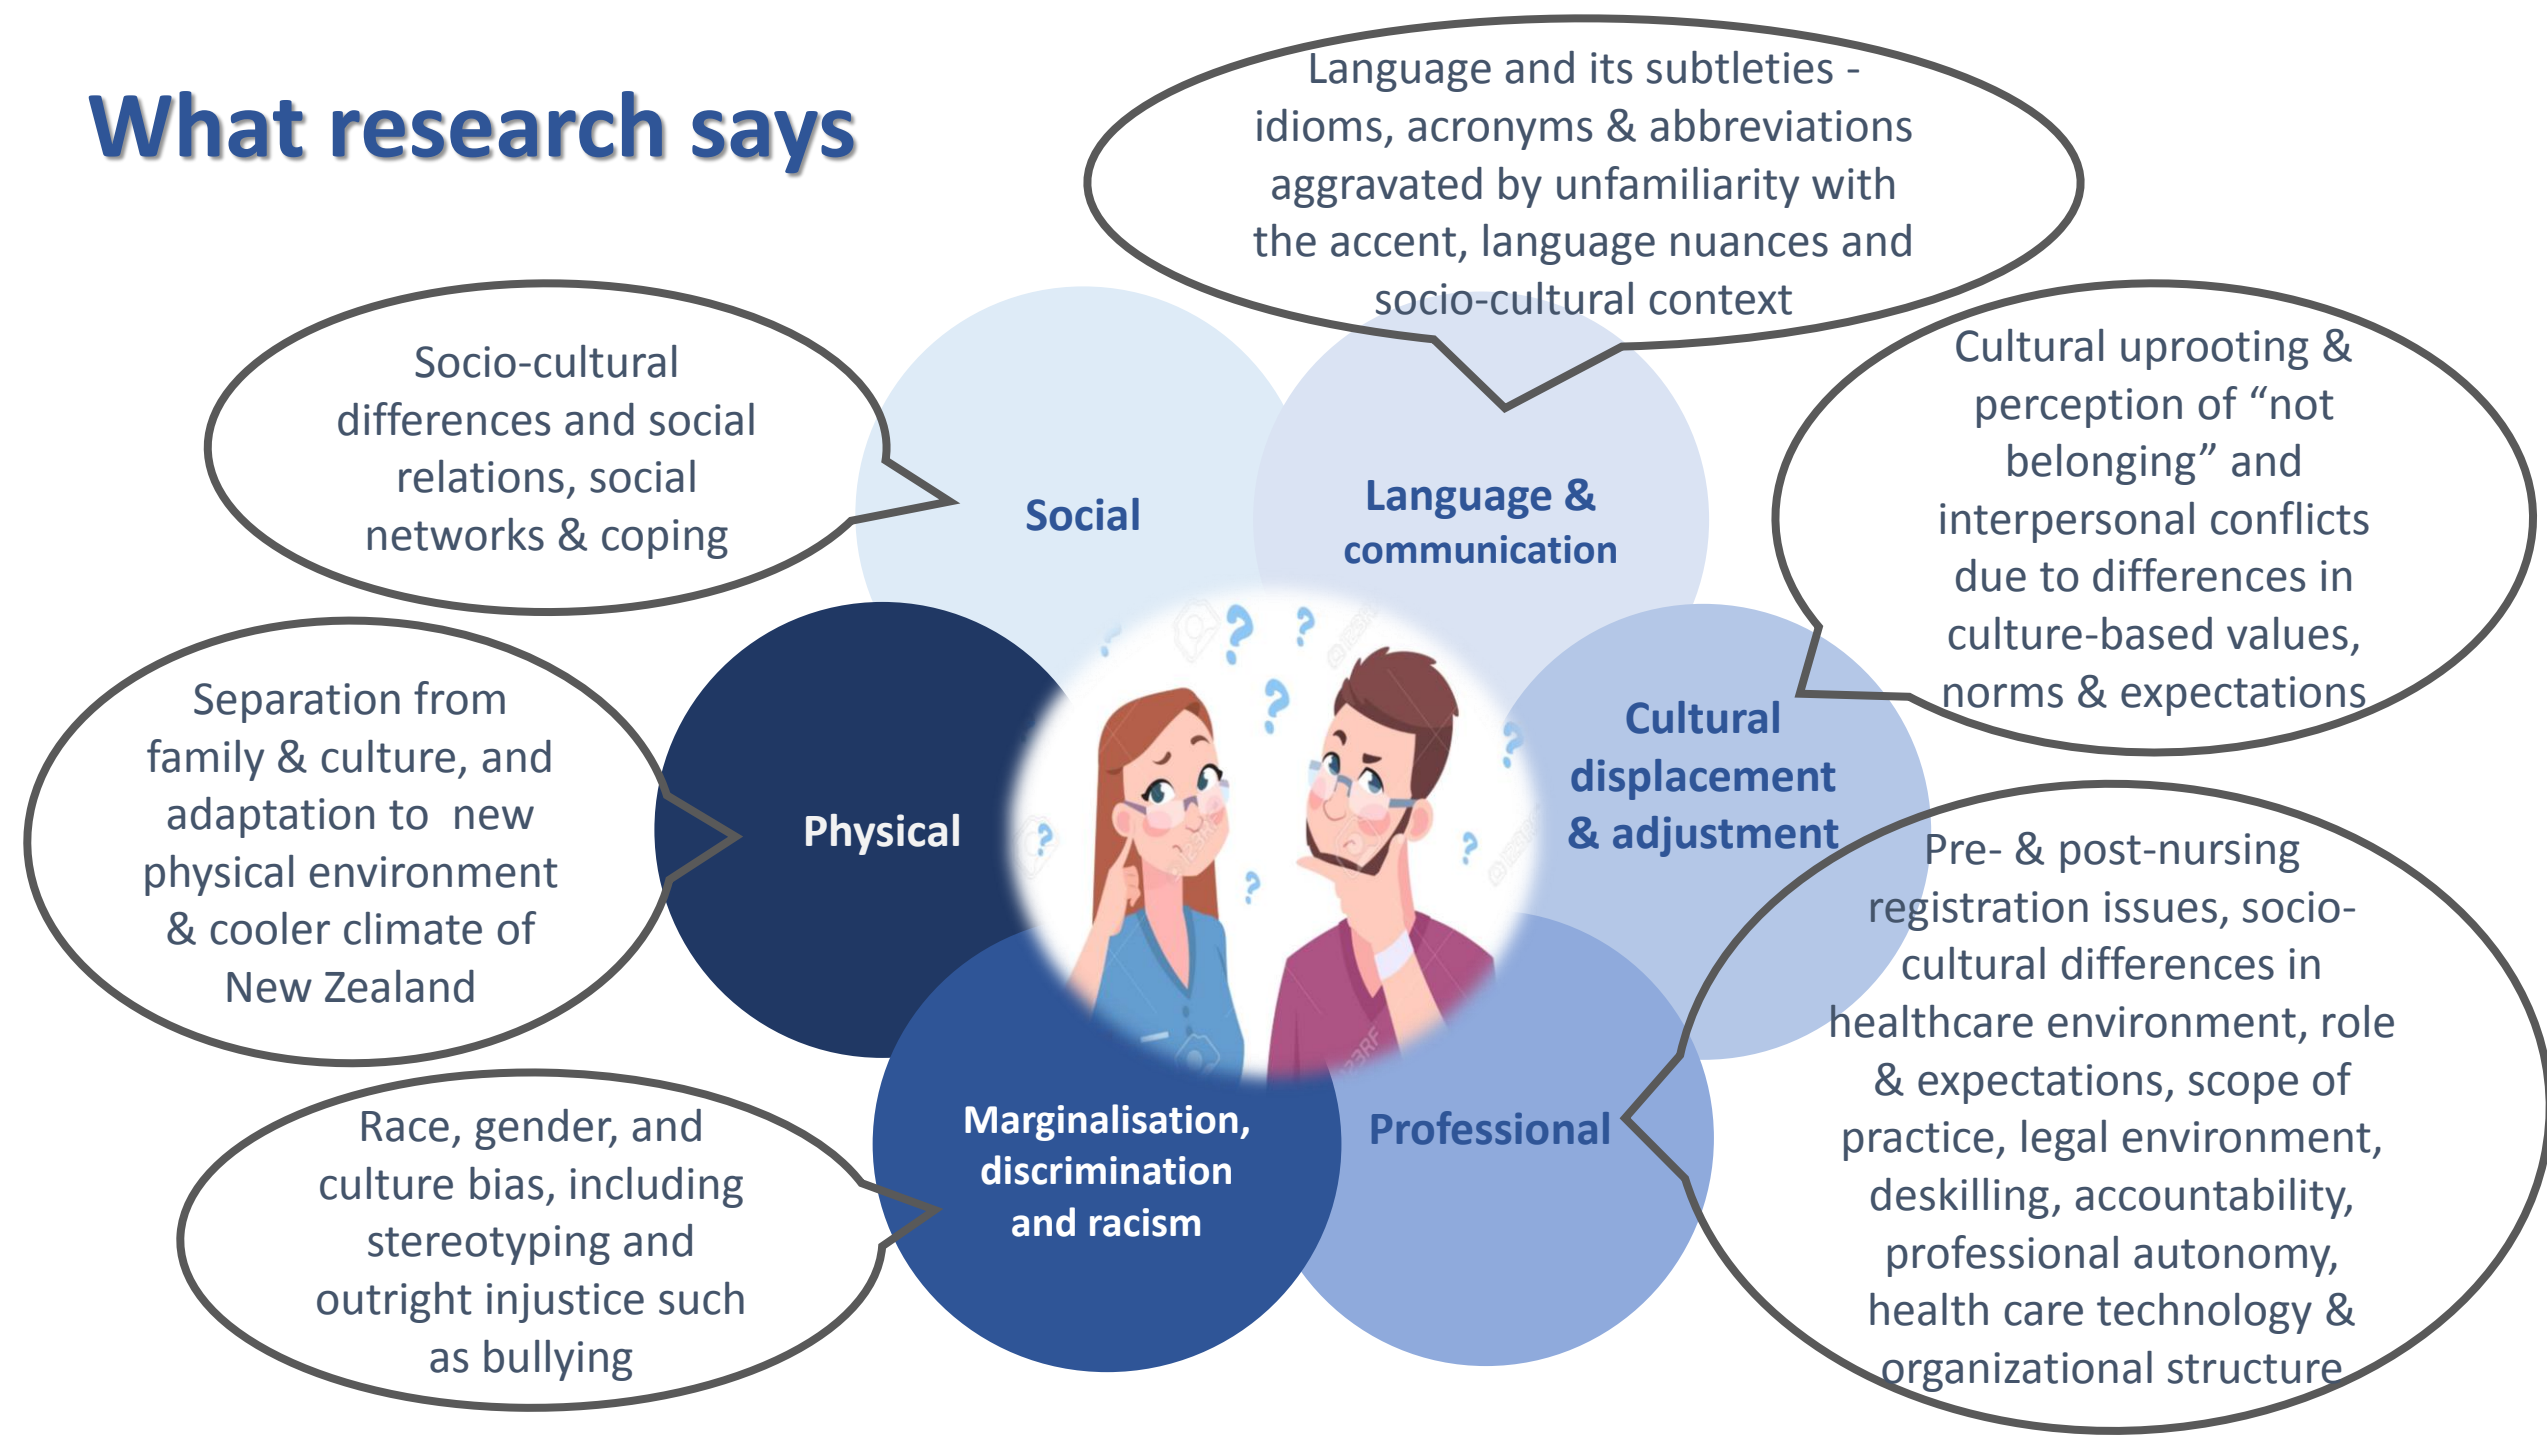

What research says

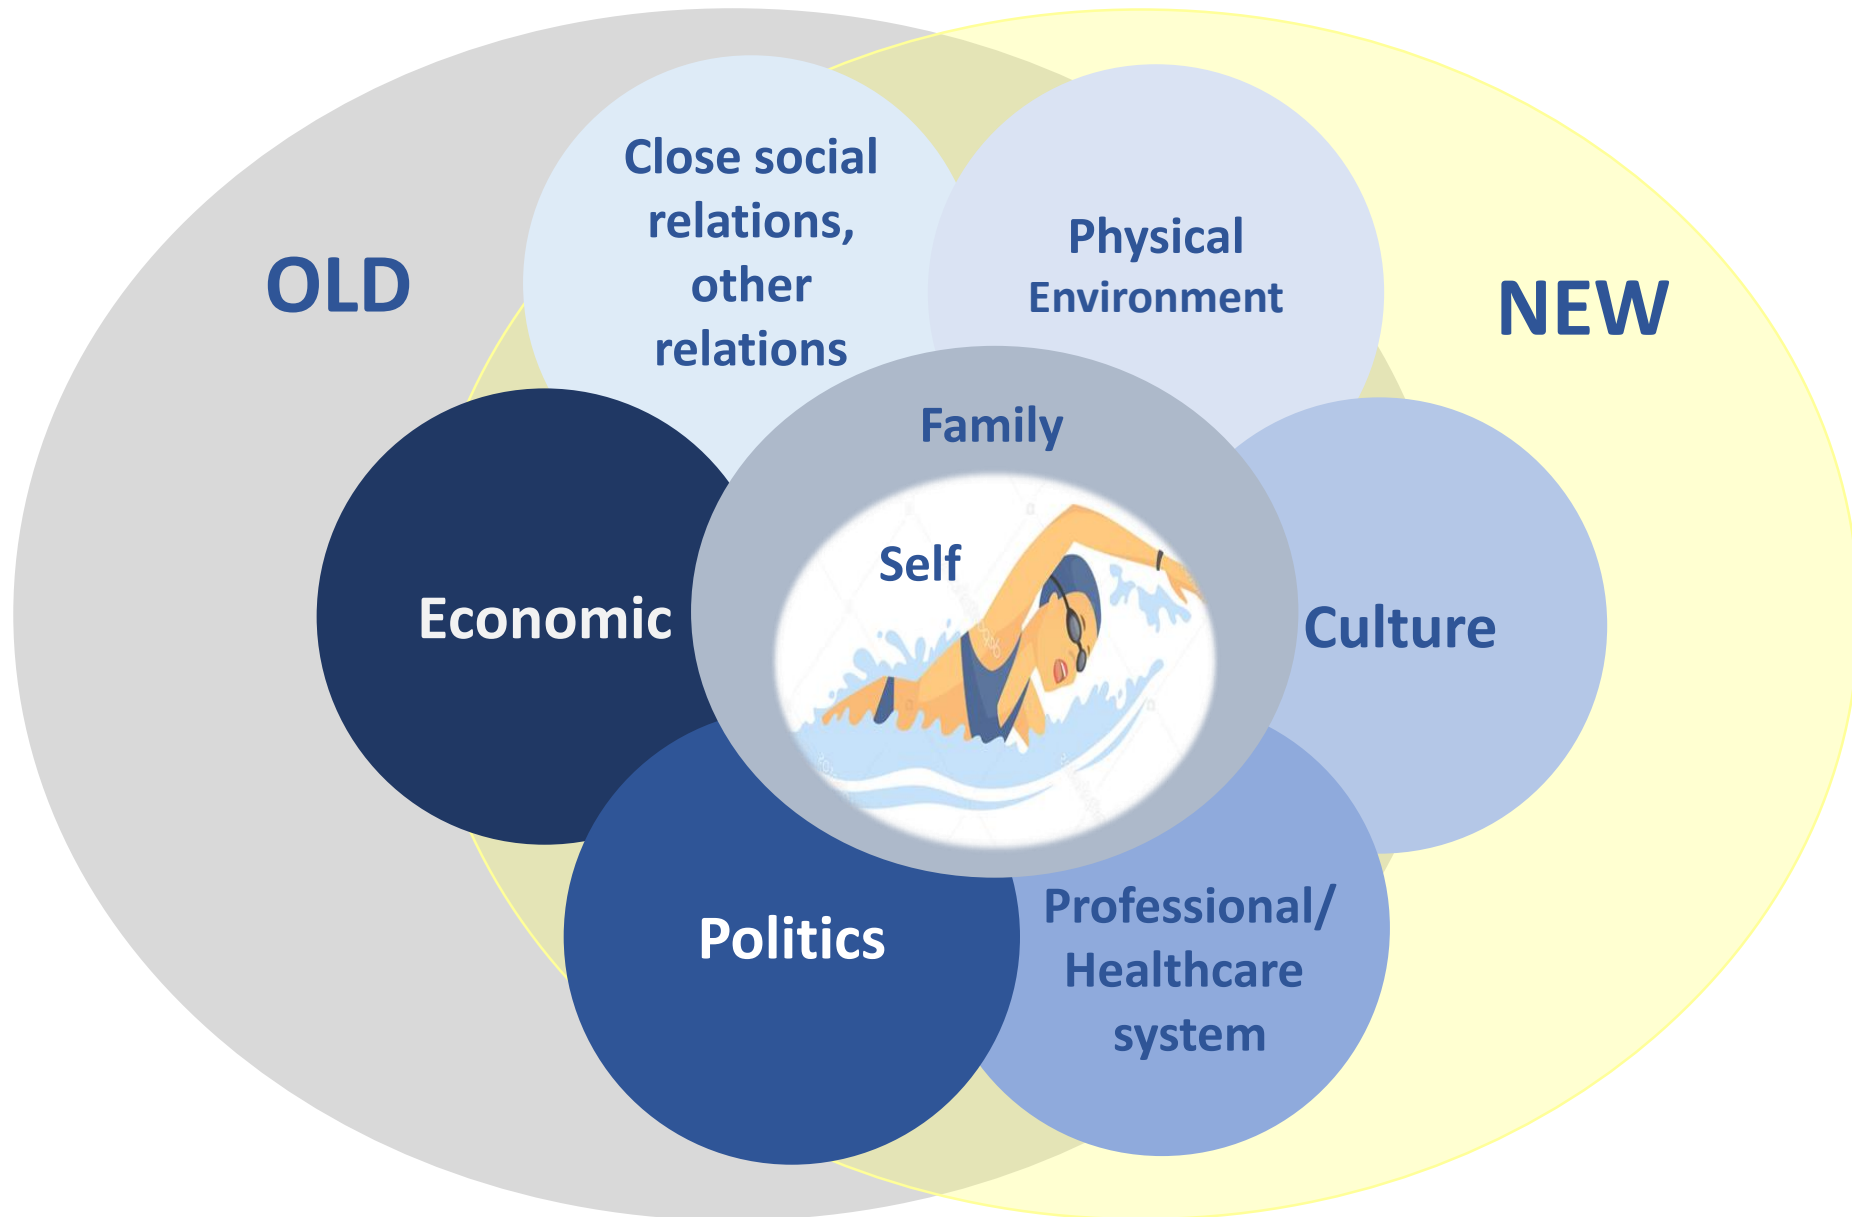

What research says

What research says

What IQNs really mean

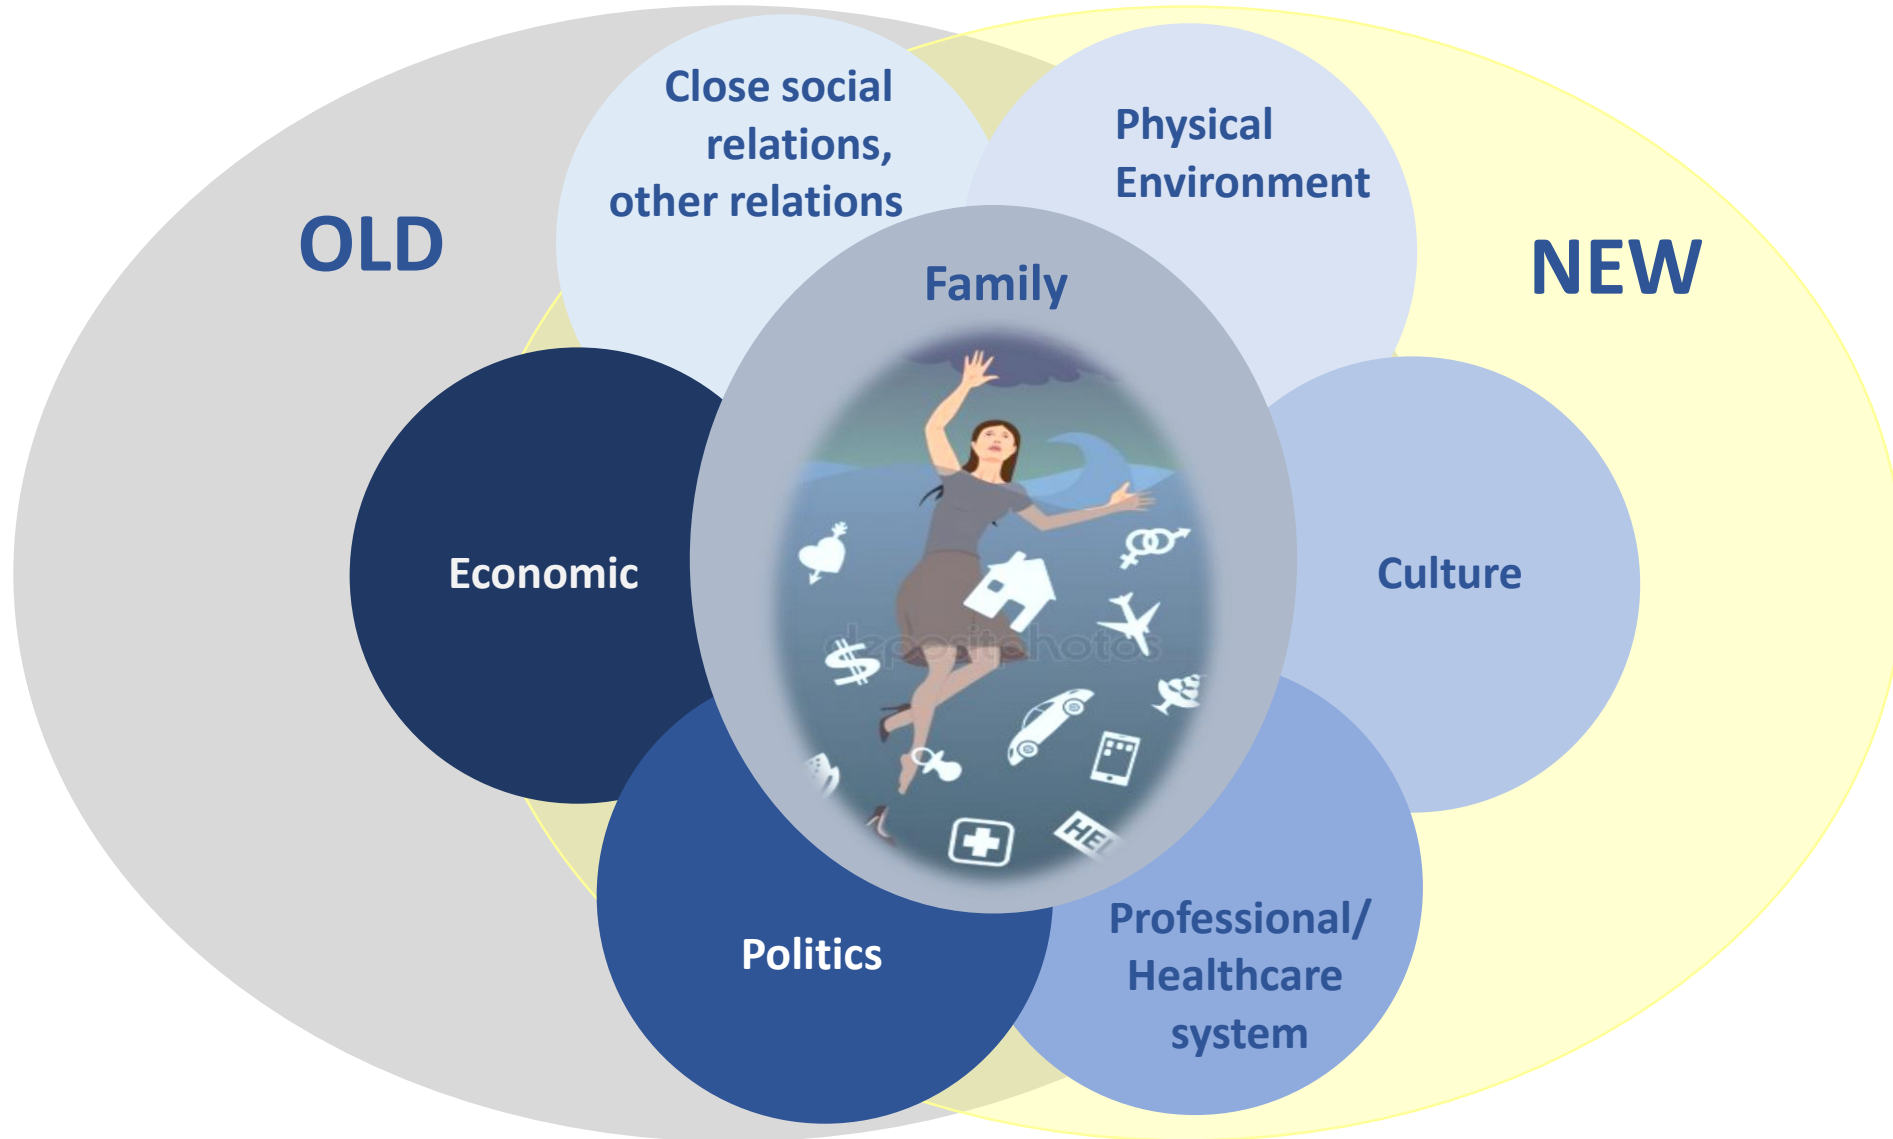

“In the society where the migrant works, his/her past is fundamentally irrelevant as the society presumes a stereotypical past for all workers in a given occupational category ... without a relevant past, the labour migrant also has no status apart from that dictated by the labour process and the occupational category as perceived by the locals. ... His/her sense of place has no fixity and the worker joins other labour migrants ...who are collectively marginalized into social invisibility.”

- Migration scholar F. V. Aguilar

IQNs navigate multiple worlds

– the old and new, internal and external, self and others

Recruitment and retention of IQNs

0-3 rd month	3 rd -6 th month	6 th – 9 th month	9 th – 12 th month
<ul style="list-style-type: none">• Screening and interview process – should have clear understanding of new country, role, system for psychological preparation• Post-orientation – arrival and orientation to country or workplace, community, system and processes; characterised by high activity, euphoria, fascination; regression to ‘novice’	<ul style="list-style-type: none">• Cultural, professional, psychological dissonance• Culture shock, psychological discomfort focussed on separation, isolation and what they left back home which manifest physically and psychologically• Unfulfilled hopes may lead to frustration, apathy or protective isolation• Support group and counselling	<ul style="list-style-type: none">• Focused emotion and futuristic decision-making• Most decisive in retention outcome• Support group and counselling	<ul style="list-style-type: none">• Lessened tension, renewed enthusiasm, emerging concern for co-workers• New sense of community life for those who stayed• Those who view the situation as temporary have less organisational involvement - Pilette, 1989

To understand IQNs

*The first thing you do is to forget that
we are IQNs*

*Second, you must never forget that
we are IQNs*

(adapted/borrowed from the poem - For the white person who wants to know how to be my friend - by Pat Parker, 1979)

Pat Parker (1944-1989) black
poet, feminist & activist

Be KIND to IQNs.

This is "I Viaggiatori" a sculpture by the artist Bruno Catalano, symbolizing the void created by leaving one's country, one's family, one's people for another life.

References

- Adeniran, R. K., Rich, V. L., Gonzalez, E., Peterson, C., Jost, S., & Gabriel, M. (2008). Transitioning Internationally Educated Nurses for Success: A Model Program. Online Journal of Issues in Nursing, 13(2), 12.
- Chege, N., & Garon, M. (2010). Adaptation challenges facing internationally educated nurses. Dimensions of Critical Care Nursing, 29(3), 131-135.
- Jenkins, B., & Huntington, A. (2015). A missing piece of the workforce puzzle. The experiences of internationally qualified nurses in New Zealand: a literature review. Contemporary Nurse: A Journal for the Australian Nursing Profession, 51(2-3), 220-231. doi:10.1080/10376178.2016.1158079
- Jenkins, B. & Huntington, A. (2016). "We are the international nurses": an exploration of internationally qualified nurses' experiences of transitioning to New Zealand and working in aged care. Nursing Praxis in New Zealand, 32(2), 9-20.
- Newton, S., Pillay, J., & Higginbottom, G. (2010). The migration and transitioning experiences of internationally educated nurses: a global perspective. Journal of Nursing Management, 20(4), 534-550.
- Nursing Council of New Zealand (2018). The New Zealand Nursing Workforce: A profile of Nurse Practitioners, Registered Nurses and Enrolled Nurses 2016 – 2017. Wellington: Nursing Council of New Zealand.
- Pilette, P. (1989). Recruitment and retention of international nurses aided by recognition of phases of the adjustment process. Journal of Continuing Education in Nursing, 20(6). 277-281.
- Xu, Y. (2010). Transitioning international nurses: An outlined Evidence-Based program for acute care settings. Policy, Politics, And Nursing Practice, 11(3), 202-213. doi:10.1177/1527154410384879