

CENNZ Journal Report 2019 Annual General Meeting College of Emergency Nurses New Zealand (NZNO)

The journal continues to use the services of Sean McGarry and Voice productions. This long standing relationship continues to serve the College and the Journal well.

It is pleasing to report the Journal has smoothly and successfully moved to a digital publication. To-date there has been four digital editions produced. The increased uses of colour and embedded links to webpages have been well received. The focus continues on the publication of emergency nursing related research. Additional regular features have been added. As anticipated, there has been significant cost savings associated with production. This frees CENNZ funds for distribution to other college activities.

The most significant challenge for publication remains the difficulty in sourcing original, unpublished, well researched material relevant to New Zealand practice settings. It is anticipated that the Journal will continue to be modified and improved to reflect the diversity of nursing practice in primary care and ED settings.
